

RIE I Fundamentals: THEORY AND OBSERVATION

An Opportunity to Train at the Original Home of RIE in Silverlake, California

This course is for students, parents (including expectant), and professionals who want to develop and deepen their understanding of infant development and care. RIE I training can be applied in settings such as the natural family, the child care center, and family child care. The course includes lectures, discussions, videos, visits to infant care centers, and a unique opportunity to observe RIE parent\infant classes at the original home of RIE. The course is facilitated by an RIE Associate, with support from RIE III Interns fulfilling their certification training requirements. The $940.00 tuition for the course includes a one year basic RIE membership.

Topics include:

- w An overview of the RIE philosophy
- w Gross motor, fine motor, and social-emotional development
- w Designing the environment
- w The art of observation
- w Parents' and infants' needs, expectations, and learning
- w Appropriate "curriculum" for infants and toddlers

Enrollment is limited. Please register early.
